PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

On January 17th, 1983, at the regular meeting, the officers for the coming year were installed in an impressive ceremony by member Helen Gordy, who was also Genealogist for our society. I accepted the duties of your President for a second year. One of our goals for this year was member participation, and I was pleased when the following members, Mildred Wickline, Mildred Devanny, Nova Coseboon, Jean Hauffe and Emily McElhaney presented interesting programs for us. It is always a well attended meeting when we are permitted to view the volumes of records on file in the Logan County Circuit Clerk's office. A first for our society occurred in November when an evening dinner meeting was held at the Heritage Inn in Lincoln. I was not present for this meeting but heard favorable reports, so perhaps this type of meeting will become a yearly event. I want to thank First Vice-President and Program Chairman, Lester Wickline, for arranging the excellent programs for us this year.

Our projects for the year being the publication of the "Heirship Records" volumes I and II have been printed and inserted in the Quarterlies. The volunteer assistance by members of our society at the Lincoln Public Library is still under the capable leadership of Co-Librarians Mildred Devanny and Virginia Johnson. However, we need more volunteers for this project. The 1860 Federal Census of Logan County publication is still available for sale. We are exchanging quarterlies with approximately thirty-seven other societies. It is imperative that our members submit their genealogical knowledge and problems to the Quarterly Editor for an interesting publication. I want to thank Viola Richert for her dedication and persistence in getting the Quarterly typed, printed and mailed on time. It has been a learning experience for me. Again, we need more people to help on the Quarterly staff.

Membership moved forward under the guidance of Second Vice-President and Membership Chairman Bernadine Montgomery and Treasurer Jane Whiteman, who both keep excellent records. Genealogist Nova Coseboon is always busy answering the many letters directed to her for assistance for those seeking information about their Logan County ancestors. Our Secretary and Historian, Lucille Henrichsmeyer, is always near to lend a helping hand and provide information when requested. The publicity for our society is able handled by Emily McElhaney and Brenda Jones. A special thanks to all these fine people.

Our society was represented at the Lincoln Railsplitting Contest and Festival and the Illinois State Genealogical Society Fall Conference with a display booth and publications for sale. A drawing was held for free memberships at both of these events. Many thanks to those who volunteered their time and talents.

It has been a busy two years for me as Projects Chairman, Special Publications Editor and your President. I could not do it alone and I am most grateful for the support of the other officers and members. I want to extend my best wishes to the new officers and success in all their endeavors.

Sincerely,

Emily P. Gordon

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

October--The October meeting was held in the offices of Judith Morrow, Logan County Circuit Clerk. Several guests were in attendance. Brenda Jones, society member and court employee, showed the records available to the public and how to use them. The evening was spent in research and examination of the many different records available. Juvenile and adoption records are closed. All Illinois Circuit Court clerks have the same records, but only those for their respective county.

November--This was a dinner meeting held at the Heritage Inn in Lincoln, Illinois. The program speaker was Mr. Armin Fricke of the Fricke-Calvert-Schrader Funeral Home of Lincoln and Mt. Pulaski, Illinois. He told us that funeral homes are often asked for information as to the place of burial. Funeral homes will give information other than that of a confidential or personal nature. Each person present was given a copy of a death certificate so we could understand why some information may be refused. A death certificate is always recorded in the state and county where the death occurs, and each county has only its own deaths. A coronor's certificate goes first to the city clerk, then to the county clerk, and then to the state office. The married name is always on the certificate. Social Security needs all of this information in regard to insurance payments, entitlements, etc. A Social Security number is very important today, even children have to have them. A birth certificate states the time and place of birth and the sex, but does not always give the parents' names. A death certificate gives the name, age, date and cause of death, attending doctor's name, funeral director and the place of burial. Prior to the early 1900s and before filing was required, doctors often failed to file births. Wills, probate records, church records and family Bibles (not always gospel truth because of the one making the recording) are sources of identification. Often-times the obituary become the only clue to a person's identity. Funeral homes change ownership, and former owners do not always give their records to the new owner. They are his property and he has a right to keep them. A body cannot be buried on private property that is not designated as a cemetery. A cremated body does not have to be buried. After the cremation the responsibility of the funeral director ends, disposal of the ashes is up to the family involved. The city clerk of the county seat must issue the burial permit. Many unusual epitaphs are found on tombstones, but they often give considerable information as to the deceased, particularly those of earlier days. A short film was shown depicting various types of monuments which reflect the temperament and desires of the family. This was a most interesting and informative program as a question and answer period followed.

December--No meeting held in December.

DO YOU KNOW WHO BEATRICE BAYLEY REALLY IS?? She is really Kurt J. Schneider of Sterling, Pa. And her competitor, SHARON TAYLOR, is none other than Mr. Halberts of Bath, Ohio, once known for mass producing Coats of Arms misrepresented as "Family Arms". And now another is on the scene, JACK EVANS, from New Castle, Delaware. BUYER BEWARE!!

Memorial Chapel

Bishop Seymour of Springfield, formally dedicated the Gillett memorial Chapel at Elkhart last Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, that day being the anniversary of John D. Gillett's birth. The memorial sermon was of the usual character delivered by Bishop Symore, eloquent and erudite. The Chapel is a neat little poem in itself, being built of gray stone and cemented with black mortar. It is exquisitely furnished and boasts a fine pipe organ. It will stand for all time as a monument to the memory of one of Logan County's earliest and sturdiest settlers.

Hotel Lobby Gossip

David L. Littler of Illinois, is stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Mr. Little is one of the noted political characters of the West. He has a gruff, off-hand way of talking, which might easily be mistaken for severity, but underneath the crust is a large stock of genialty and humor. Mr. Little was formerly one of the United States Commissioners for the Union Pacific Railroad. Two years ago he took charge of Senator Cullom's boom for the Presidency. He exposed the Cullom boom in this city early last spring, but the climate here was too severe for it. When he was asked yesterday what had become of the Cullom boom, Mr. Littler said, "I have got it on ice, it is in a healthy condition. I am here for the purpose of entering Mr. Cullom for the race in 1896. We will nominate him then sure."

* * * * *

Mr. Littler and ex-Senator Dwight M. Sabin of Minnesota, breakfasted together at the Fifth Avenue the other morning. Mr. Littler gave his order and the waiter was an unusually long time in bringing his breakfast. "You should remember," said Mr. Sabin, "that this hotel has been running a long time and most of the waiters have been here for years. They are not as active as younger men would be." Finally the waiter appeared. "Hello!" exclaimed Mr. Littler in his gruffest tone, "where in have you been? I thought you were lost." "I lost pretty heavily on Illinois a few weeks ago," said the waiter, "but I haven't lost anything since."

Mr. Littler concluded that the joke was on him and ate his breakfast in silence.

The scrapbook of Mrs. Lemira P. Gillett is in the collection of Gary G. Jones, a member of the Logan County Geneological Society, Lincoln, Illinois.

A Wish.

I lay by my casement one evening,
With my eyes on the ^{dim} distant blue,
Watching the daylight fast fading,
And thinking dear Auntie of you.

And lo! as I gazed thro' the twi' light,
Fast deepning to night's somber gloom,
A glimmer I saw, thro' the darkness,
And a star sent its ray thro' the room.

And while I was lying there ~~thinking~~
Of you, in your far distant home,
Like a flash came the memory of wishing
When a child, with the star first to come

So following the old time tradition,
With childish delight in the deed,
I wished for my dear absent Auntie
Whatever I thought she might need.

And wished for my now absent,
Safe voyage across the wide seas,
A return, when the summons is fading
Safe back, to their home, and to these,
cousins,

From Daisy to her dear Aunt,
January 12th 1890,

The Scrapbook is now in the possession of Gary G. Jones, member of the Logan County Geneological Society, Lincoln, Logan County, Illinois.

NEW LEGISLATION FOR ADOPTEES

The Governor of New York has signed legislation recently which will help the thousands of adults who were adopted in New York State get information about their natural parents. The law makes it possible for the first time for natural parents to be reunited with their offspring if both sides agree. The Health Department will give special information to adopted children at age 21 about religion, medical history, racial and ethnic backgrounds of their natural parents.

Information from the Chicago Tribune and Wil-Grundy Soc.

If you are a woman who gave up a child for adoption and would now like to trace your child or perhaps you are an adopted child and would like to find your natural parents. Court records are usually tightly closed. However, here are the addresses of three organizations that may help:

American Liberty Movement Assn. Box 154, Washington Bridge Station,
New York, NY 10033
Concerned United Birthparents, 595 Central Ave., Dover, NH 03820
Origins, Box 105, Oakhurst, NJ 07755

Thanks to Jane Whiteman, Jeannette Buse, and Lucille Henrichsmeyer for typing stencils for this Quarterly.

ATTENTION:

The pages of the Quarterly following the Membership Application, being pages 16 through 25, are a continuation from the Oct., 1983, Quarterly for more pages of Heirship Records, Journal No. 1, Logan County, Lincoln, Ill.

The Governor of West Virginia has recently signed into law the bill which will help the State to better care for its aged population. The law provides for the establishment of a State Board of Aging, which will be responsible for the coordination of all State activities in connection with the care of the aged. The Board will also be responsible for the establishment of a State Council on Aging, which will be responsible for the coordination of all State activities in connection with the care of the aged. The Board will also be responsible for the establishment of a State Council on Aging, which will be responsible for the coordination of all State activities in connection with the care of the aged.

If you are a member of the State Board of Aging, you will receive a copy of this bill. If you are not a member, you may wish to write to the Governor and urge him to sign the bill. Your copy of the bill may be obtained from the State Board of Aging, which is located at the State Capitol Building, Charleston, West Virginia. The bill is titled "The State Board of Aging Act."

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- JANUARY-- Installation of officers was by Emily Gordon. Charles B. Spaugh, local member, presented a program on methods he uses in his genealogical work. He particularly stressed the use of photos, photocopying, FULL documentation of source of material, name of book, publisher, date and page; family reunions with plenty of publicity of the reunion, and ORGANIZATION in all areas of research. Jeanette Buse, local member, showed and told of some of her collection of family records.
- FEBRUARY-- Gary Jones, local member, presented an account of the 73 Illinois Infantry during the Civil War. Logan County had some men in this group. One of their major battles was at Perryville, Kentucky. This was not a military battle as much as an economic one to secure material resources, such as food, for the army. Kentucky had good supplies of food and livestock. His review gave some of the weaknesses of the Confederate army and some of the military mistakes both armies made and the reason for the Union victory. This battle saved Kentucky for the Union.
- MARCH--- A very interesting talk on the family background and lineage of Abraham Lincoln given by Paul Gleason, local Junior High teacher and historian. Mr. Lincoln was of English ancestry. He was a descendant of a Richard Lincoln who died in 1620, and whose first child was born in 1599. Richard Lincoln's son Edward had a son Samuel Lincoln who came to Massachusetts in 1638, and moved from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania and then to Virginia. Abraham's grandfather was named Abraham and was born in Berks County, Pennsylvania. Abraham's father was Thomas Lincoln, a man who had no formal education but owned several parcels of land at various times. The family lived in Hardin County, Kentucky, later moving to Hodgenville, Kentucky, and from there to Spencer County, Indiana, and then to Illinois. Abraham Lincoln had a very close relationship with his stepmother. Abraham's real philosophy of life was established in the New Salem days near Petersburg, Illinois. A question and answer period followed.
- APRIL---- Bernadine Montgomery, local member, spoke on "Documentation in Genealogy". Remember what your parents and grandparents told you, but it must be proved to be authentic. Most societies will accept Bible records, but watch the handwriting. Be sure to copy the title of the Bible, the date of publication, the publisher, and name of the owner. Good evidence are all court records. A copied will must state county where found, book and page number. Church records are good. Cemetery records are very good, but again copy name of book used and page number. Copy information on tombstone exactly as found, and have it notarized. School records are not proof, but give referential information, as do old letters, diaries, autograph albums, scrapbooks, even old cook books put out by societies or churches. Some county histories are accurate; some are not. The cardinal rule of documentation is to furnish proof of one's information.

THE EVOLUTION OF LOGAN COUNTY

When describing a county's history one usually begins with the time period heralding the arrival of the first white settlers. Available space places this limitation on this article also. However, it should not go unmentioned that the arrival of the Latham, Chapman and Briggs families in the early 1819s followed a much earlier settlement. Writers of early Illinois history report a very thriving Kickapoo settlement in the area of Central Illinois, now known as Logan Co. In fact, it has been labeled the principal town or capital of that tribe. Annals of the Illinois Territory, and later-written county histories, report white settlers in Logan County, although they were temporary. The more famous of these was the kidnapped Gilham family from Kentucky. However, there were many others. Negotiators sent by the Governor of the Illinois Territory lived briefly on Logan County soil. Following their failure to settle differences with the Kickapoos, a small army stayed long enough to destroy the Indian town and build a road to Fort Clark on Lake Peoria.

Before Logan County was formed in 1839, and until 1845 when its boundaries last changed, records for its inhabitants might well be found in many other counties. This fact need not be a hinderance but rather a blessing as the Logan County Courthouse was destroyed by fire in April of 1857. Fortunately, a few books containing real estate transactions were rescued.

To aid the researcher in Logan County, the following chronology of events shows the changing boundaries and the counties of jurisdiction.

- 1817 Logan Co. was a part of Bond County. Sangamon Co. was evenly divided between Madison and Bond Cos.
- 1821 Sangamon County was formed, including in its boundaries all of the territory now comprised in Logan Co.
- 1823 A government land office was established in Springfield, Illinois.
- 1824 (Nov. 18) The first claim was filed for an entry of public land in what is now Logan Co.
- 1825 10 new counties were formed and Sangamon Co. was reduced in size to all of the present Sangamon Co., all of the present Menard Co., part of the present Mason Co. and all of the present Logan Co. except the northern tier of townships, namely Prairie Creek, Orvil, Eminence and Atlanta.
- 1827 Tazewell Co. was formed. From Dec. 1825 to Jan. 1827 the townships of Prairie Creek, Orvil, Eminence and Atlanta were "left out in the cold" and included in what was known as "unorganized territory." The remainder of the present Logan Co. stayed with Sangamon Co.
- 1830 Atlanta Township was taken from Tazewell Co. and given to McLean Co. The other 3 townships stayed in Tazewell Co. and the remainder of Logan Co. was still a part of Sangamon Co.
- 1839 (Feb. 28) Logan Co. was created. It still did not include the northern tier of townships. DeWitt Co. was also created and Atlanta Township was taken from McLean Co. and included in DeWitt Co.
- 1840 (Jan. 27) Prairie Creek, Orvil and Eminence townships were taken from Tazewell Co. and included in Logan Co.
- 1840 (Feb. 26) Atlanta Township was transferred to Logan Co.

months of drought. A killing freeze on August 28th completely destroyed every green plant - corn, cane and vines. Wheat could not be cut.

The general sentiment toward the slavery question was reflected when she wrote: "William Howard was tried and sentenced from preaching for one year, because he thinks a Negro is not as good as he is." In the winter of 1866 she writes: "Folks are in high spirits. Lots are marrying and the rest are joining the church." Prohibition was a burning question, and one night they all "went to the school-house to hear a drunkard talk on temperance."

The language used in the diary is descriptive and to the point, as when she describes a chilly day as "an ague looking day." Throughout the pages she unconsciously reveals herself as the counsellor, nurse and friend of the whole community. Hers was a life of service and generosity, enriched by a love for people and a sense of humor that sparkles through the pages. She died in 1882.

The closing session of this year's reunion was a family worship service with 16 relatives sharing in its leadership. The message "A Triumph of the Spirit" was brought by Dr. S. Thomas Shifflet, a great-great-grandson of Samuel and Catharine, who now is pastor of the First Christian Church, Minneapolis, Minnesota. Twelve of those present were 80 years of age or older. Those coming the greatest distance wore two families from Alaska. Many of the family made a pilgrimage to the graves of their ancestors in Fremont Cemetery in Funk's Grove Township.

Officers elected to serve the next two years are: President-Olive L. Cunningham, Appleton, Wisconsin; Vice President-Bruce Hammitt, Fairbury, Illinois; and Secretary-Treasurer-Ruth Bayless, East Peoria, Illinois.

NARS ORDERING PROCEDURES CHANGED

Effective 1 April 1984, requests for copies of military service records or passenger arrival records held by the National Archives must be submitted on NATF forms 80 and 81. Versions of these forms, NATF 26 and 40, will not be accepted, but will be returned.

There is also a change in payment policies after 1 April. They currently require payment with requests. After April 1st, payment should not be sent with NATF forms 80 and 81. NARS will research the request, prepare copies of records located, and hold the copies for three weeks or until the payment is received. As soon as records are located and copied, the researchers will receive a bill and instructions for making a remittance. Researchers should also submit NATF form 80 for pension, bounty-land, or military service record desired. Each research area requires a separate form.

Write National Archives and Records Service, Washington, D. C. 20408, for forms 80 and 81 after March 15th.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

JULY 16, 1984

This was an evening of fun, fool and fellowship on a picnic at Kickapoo Creek Park in Lincoln. There was no program nor business meeting.

AUGUST 20, 1984

Nova Coseboon, local member, spoke on video taping of family histories and activities. This is an excellent way of preserving family histories, and family events. The tape is shown on a regular TV screen. She showed colored tapes of a recent family gathering in Tennessee and our of annual dinner meeting held last November.

SEPTEMBER 17, 1984

Jean Hauffee, local member, spoke on "The Use of the Census in Family Research". The first American census was taken in 1790 and gave only the name of the head of the family and location. Most major libraries have this census. The 1820 census gives more information but does not give country of origin. The 1840 census gives a break-down in names and giving Revolutionary pensioners, however the pensioner may not always have been a soldier. The 1850 census was a boon for the genealogist as it gave the name, age, place of birth, names of children, their age and place of residence and birth, and value of real estate. The land records may give further information. The 1860 census listed if married within the year, but census taker did not always include this information. In the 1870 census the census taker did not always include the information that it provided for, but gives the birth place of both father and mother as well as the children.

The census for 1900 and 1910 more detailed as to month and year of birth, number of children, time of marriage. Few of these censuses have been transcribed. Some later census include the mortality records of people who died the year before the census was taken.

County census is ususally listed by township. Logan County townships were never changed after their first formation. A state census does not give a lot of information. Territorial census was taken to see if there were enough people to become a state. The census often misses people and others are counted twice, especially when people move from one area to another.

A TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTION IN A PROBATE RECORD?

The average genealogist is seldom be surprised at any source for a record. However, finding a tombstone inscription in a probate record is virtually unheard of; at least until now. The following page from the probate record of William R. Braucher, late of Logan County, Illinois, provides another place to look for tombstone data.

This source is especially valuable since the stone for Julia Braucher evidently has not survived the years--or was never delivered as ordered. The stones for William Braucher, Mary Braucher and Emily Braucher are in the Turley Cemetery, Elkhart Township, Logan Co., IL.

The name is spelled variously Braucher, Bracher, Brachear in the probate record, while the tombstone is engraved "Brachear".

Logan Co., Jan. 1860

I have this day bought of B. M. Grumman 4 set of marble grave stones. one set described as folows (sic) Head Stone to be about 4 feet Long with design of Broken Columns and Incribed William Brachear Died Feb. 16, 1859 Aged ___ yrs ___ ms ___ ds. This is a story about my great grandfather, Wilson Richmond.
I was named for my great grandmother, Emily Fisher Miars Richmond. I was her first great grandchild.

My father was Richmond Robison, son of Archie L. Robison and Lida Richmond Robison. We lived a mile from great grandmother Emily Richmond and her daughters, Martha and Emma. She knitted mittens for everyone, it seemed to me. We were all proud to wear the mittens she had made for us.

PIONEERING SPIRIT LED JOSEPH RICHMOND FROM MARYLAND TO PENNSYLVANIA: THEN TO OHIO AND ILLINOIS

Joseph Richmond, born April 20, 1786 at Middletown, Maryland, to parents about whom little is known and his life shaped by the pioneering spirit so common in his time. The quest for fertile land that drew thousands of coastal inhabitants across the mountains to the Midwest took Joseph Richmond to Pennsylvania, then Ohio, and finally Illinois.

The son of a Francis Richmond who may have been born in Scotland, Joseph, his older brother Francis and his sister Mary were orphaned at a young age. Family legend is that Francis, the father, returned to Scotland for the settlement of his father's estate and on the return trip, shortly before reaching home, he was murdered somewhere in the East, presumably by someone who thought he was carrying a large sum of money. His widow said she could not support the children and they were all bound out. Joseph, who was only about 3 years old when bound out to a farmer, never saw his brother or sister again. At one point, Joseph was apprenticed to Valentine Doup, a Middletown wagon maker.

HEADED FOR THE HILLS AT AGE 18

When he was 18, Joseph Richmond left the people to whom he had been bound and on foot, with his dog and gun, went to Pennsylvania. Later, Joseph went on to Ohio where, on January 9, 1809, he took as his bride Nancy Iler (or Euler). They were married in Zanesville where Nancy had been born on June 18, 1794 to Adolphus and Moralena Andalucia Iler. Joseph and his 14 year old wife settled in Zanesville and their first child, Marinda, was born there February 9, 1811. After Joseph returned from War of 1812 service, he helped rear at least seven more children born in Zanesville: Wilson, b. Sept. 8, 1815; Wilkinson, b. Oct. 28, 1817; Sarah, b. Dec. 4, 1819; Henson, b. May 24, 1824; Martha, b. Sept. 18, 1826; Joseph Scott, b. May 22, 1828, and John A., b. May 22, 1830. Dates are not known for another child, Jonas.

ON TO ILLINOIS BY OX TEAM

Their little son John was not yet 4 months old when Joseph and Nancy Richmond gathered up the eight children on Sept. 8, 1830 in pursuit of a western home; actually, they were headed for Rapids, Iowa, but never got that far. The trip was both slow and tedious, an ox team pulling the family belongings for more than five weeks. Son Wilson, who celebrated his 15th birthday the day the family left its Ohio home, walked all the way, driving the three cows and hunting wild turkey and other game to feed them along the way.

While in camp at Danville, Illinois, Simon Thomas, a relative, advised them not to go to Iowa, where there was so little timber, but instead to go to the Dillon settlement where they would meet many good settlers. They arrived at Mackinaw in Tazewell County, Illinois on October 15, 1830, where they remained overnight in the log courthouse. Here they were invited by George Hittle to join his nearby settlement at Hittle's Grove, an opportunity which the weary travelers gladly accepted. This beautiful location remained home to Wilson Richmond until his death there on May 19, 1908 at age 92.

FIRST WINTER BRINGS TRAGEDY

The following winter proved to be one of great severity, hardship and trials to the new settlers. The greatest loss was that of Joseph Richmond on Feb. 16, 1831. Despite a deep snow, Joseph Richmond and his prospective son-in-law, Samuel Judy, set out for Mackinaw where they procured a marriage license for Sam and Joseph's daughter, Marinda. The marriage was to take place the next day. The return trip by foot and the extreme cold proved to be too much for Joseph Richmond and he was overcome with exhaustion and hunger, and unable to go further. He insisted that Mr. Judy go on and save himself, if possible. Samuel managed to reach the Richmond home and, together with family and neighbors, searched the prairie all night, but failed to find Mr. Richmond until the grey messengers of early morn brought them kindly assistance; but death had already claimed Joseph Richmond. The same year their little son, Joseph Scott Richmond, died.

These losses were almost too much to bear and the mother longed to return to her Ohio home, fearing the fatherless family might starve; but Wilson assured the sorrowful mother of his strength and support. Although yet a teenager when she died Nov. 3, 1834, Wilson's affection for both parents was shown all his life. He never failed to say each Nov. 3, "today poor mother died," and on Feb. 16, with tears, would say that so many years ago that day his father had frozen to death.

TEENAGE SON TAKES ON SUPPORT OF FAMILY

The support of his large family had fallen upon Wilson Richmond at the tender age of 15. The spring after his father's death, the family moved to Samuel Judy's 40 acres near Mackinaw, a farm later owned by Jonas Hittle. Here it was that Wilson learned to cradle wheat--in fact, learned the many principles of farm life which he so successfully practiced during his adulthood. The following spring the family moved to Little Mackinaw Township, still in Tazewell Co. There they were assisted by Messrs. Wilson, Havenhill and others who were ever ready to give Wilson employment. He worked in the fields, split rails, built cabins, or took on any work which would pay 25¢ a day, which he always gave to his mother. He proved to be such a stalwart worker, and so useful, that Mr. Wilson one day said to him, "Wilson, you can have 50¢ a day as long as you wish." Astonishment was expressed that he should pay the youth so much, but Mr. Wilson said: "That boy earns more than any three men in the county."

So it was that Wilson had already become the mainstay of this Richmond family by the time his mother, Nancy (Iler) Richmond, died in the fall of 1834, leaving the family of children--the youngest only four years old--to be raised by Wilson and his two sisters.

WILSON RICHMOND WAS 'MAN OF THE FAMILY' AT 15

Wilson Richmond was married the day before Christmas of 1835 in Hittle Township, Illinois to Mary Judy, daughter of John Wheatley and Christena (Hittle) Judy, a union which brought together three families which had struggled together on the frontier. Ten children were born to Wilson and Mary, five of them dying in infancy. Then, on Feb. 22, 1854, a week after she had given birth to a baby boy who died the following day, Wilson's wife Mary died at age 34, leaving him with five motherless children, Frank, John W., Nancy, Jane & Mary, the oldest of them 12 and the youngest only 2.

It was about this time that Wilson was contacted by his cousin, John, the son of the brother Wilson's father had never seen since the children had been orphaned more than 55 years ago. When Wilson's uncle Francis died, he had asked his son John to visit his brother Joseph's family in Tazewell Co., Illinois. Wilson soon became close friends with his cousin John, who was a minister, doctor and became an Illinois State Senator.

On Jan. 18, 1855, Wilson Richmond was united in marriage with Mrs. Emily (Fisher) Miars of Elm Grove Twp., with his cousin John performing the ceremony in Springfield, Ill. Emily was the daughter of James and Amy (Bennet) Fisher and the widow of Daniel Miars. To them were born nine children, three of whom died in childhood. The second Mrs. Wilson Richmond also had three children to her previous marriage.

Wilson Richmond lived a long and productive life as a farmer and passed away peacefully at his home at age 92 on the morning of May 19, 1908, survived by 9 of the 19 children he fathered and 44 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

It must have been with both sadness and satisfaction that Wilson Richmond observed and participated in the settlement of the Illinois frontier. This land had brought tragedy to his family, leaving him to fulfill his pioneer father's dreams.

WEST GERMAN SEARCHERS

Hamburg Aids Search For Family Roots

Many original lists of people emigrating from Europe via the German Port of Hamburg have been preserved. Items of information dating from 1850 to 1914 can now be found in the Historic Emigration Office, established in the Museum of Hamburg History where there are two full-time researchers. Bernd Nehls and Michael Vogel will handle all inquiries.

The entire passenger lists have now been copied on micro-film. It is necessary to know the last name of your ancestor, and the first if known, as well as the year of emigration. The name usually reveals the passenger's home town. When you know the town, write to a city official or church registry and ask for more information about the family. Often, the lists might indicate what conditions led to the ancestor's emigration. As an example, in 1855, the year of great poverty, people left to seek a fortune.

If you wish to inquire by mail, your request should go to the Historic Emigration Office, Museum fur Hamburgische Geschichte, Holstenwall 24,2000, Hamburg 36, West Germany. The research fee is $30, plus $10 each additional year of passenger lists to be searched. You need to send a cashier's check for the years to be searched.

If the search is futile, you will receive a certificate indicating the efforts made to trace your ancestor and also a brochure that provides background information on emigration from Europe via Hamburg.
